With a commitment to the community that surrounds New Center Community Services, efforts are being made not only to provide the utmost care to those we serve, but to those who are affected by mental health illness. Too often those affected, but least recognized are the immediate family and community members, who provide care and services to those who are touched by this crippling illness. New Center Community Services recognizes the need to educate and support the family and community members by providing immediate support to the countless individuals with mental illness in our community.
